

HOW TO SURVIVE A ZOMBIE ATTACK

A SELF-INSTRUCTION
MANUAL
S.F. MALCOLM

Hide. Get out of sight and preferably down and wind from them.

Fire is a great weapon, but use it to your advantage, flaming zombies will set fire to anything they touch.

Be Prepared

Good hiding places:

1. School or university buildings
2. Supermarkets
3. Department stores

Bad hiding places:

1. Shopping malls
2. Basements, houses and garages
3. A car to which you don't have the keys
4. Any building that offers a way in and no way out.

If all else fails, act like one of them.
WARNING: Use only as a last resort

Prepare a zombie survival kit, only include essentials.

Fortify. Anything that can help keep them out or slow them down will buy you time.

Long Term Survival

Know your enemy. Watch all the zombie movies and read all the books you can.

Fighting Zombies

Anything you can lift, throw or swing is a potential weapon.

Find other survivors that you can trust. You will need to work together to survive.

Early Stages of Infection

RUN! Most zombies are slow moving so you can usually outrun them.

Always aim for the head, it's the only sure way of killing them.

Hold out for military rescue. This may take a long time so be prepared.

Good Luck!
